

Pulse on the College Campus

Category: Reflections as Pulse Turns 10

I am a faculty member and a pre-health advisor at a small, liberal arts college. I work with students interested in a variety of health professions. Because my training has all been focused on scientific pursuits, I have no direct experience as a clinician.

Reading Pulse gives me perspective on what my current students may experience in their future careers, and allows me to speak more knowledgeably with them about their chosen fields.
