

Quantum Tunneling

Category: visuals

written by Kate Levenberg | September 7, 2018

Kate Levenberg

About the artist:

Kate Levenberg is a second-year medical student at Penn State University.

About the artwork:

“This painting speaks to that mysterious understanding that there’s energy around us that we can’t quite perceive. The energy that we just know we will never be smart enough to accurately describe. That faint idea that time might not be linear, that our perception is imperfect, and that the earth will keep revolving long after my energy has dissipated.”

Visuals editor:

Sara Kohrt